2016 ANNUAL REPORT

2017

From the President...

Recently I found myself contemplating why I have chosen to build my 30-year career at The Peregrine Fund. Our staff was preparing to develop a strategic plan, but I felt that we needed to define more than what we would be doing in the coming years. We needed to get to the root of why we do the work we do.

It's not just my passion for science and conservation that brought me here and kept me dedicated to the organization. I want to make a difference for the future of nature, or as Steve Jobs said, "to put a dent in the universe." The Peregrine Fund has been tremendously successful and I am grateful to count my personal accomplishments among the organization's victories. That's why most of our people work here, and many others would like to.

Without the work of The Peregrine Fund, our namesake falcons would likely not have recovered as rapidly, and people might still be polluting with DDT. The Mauritius Kestrel—once down to only four individuals—would be extinct; instead there's a strong wild population. The Ridgway's Hawk would be gone, or nearly gone, by now. Without our tenacity, Madagascar's Serpent Eagles and Red Owls would not have been rediscovered and would be unprotected. Over 500,000 acres of habitat for the Madagascar Fish Eagle would not be protected by local communities, who now enjoy a higher standard of living. And at least three species of vultures in South Asia would be extinct.

I could go on listing successes, species we've helped save, and people who have benefitted from our work, but the bottom line is this: our past actions have changed today's reality. It's thrilling to realize that what we do today will change the future.

As part of our strategic planning I shared this inspiration with the staff, and the energy was palpable. If there's one thing The Peregrine Fund has in spades, it is passion and commitment. It's exciting to be part of a movement to improve the future of the world.

We have plans for the next five years that will enable us to save species and the places they need to survive by solving conservation problems and developing sustainable solutions based on sound science. We focus on birds of prey as charismatic and efficient sentinels for change and indicators of success. We know this formula produces tangible, measurable results; it literally changes the future.

If you're the kind of person who wants to transform the future for the benefit of nature and humanity, we are the organization for you. We invite you to join us in conserving birds of prey worldwide to CHANGE THE FUTURE.

Sincerely,

Richard T. Watson, Ph.D.

More than 40 years ago, our founders were determined to save Peregrine Falcons from extinction. Their life's work is a legacy we are all able to enjoy each time we glimpse one of these magnificent birds in the wild.

The Peregrine Fund's planned giving society

You, too, can give the gift of raptor conservation by including The Peregrine Fund in your estate plans. You will join a special group of donors who receive permanent recognition at the World Center for Birds of Prey in Boise, invitations to special events, and recognition in the annual report and website (unless you wish to be anonymous).

Your bequest, annuity, or other planned gift further strengthens the foundation of all our conservation work, giving future generations the tools they'll need for a changing world.

Please let us know when you include The Peregrine Fund in your plans by calling, writing, or using the simple form at www.peregrinefund.org/legacy-circle.

Questions? E-mail legacycircle@peregrinefund.org or call 406-388-7717.

Membership Matters

Jim Shane

Members are the wind beneath our wings—their unwavering support and enthusiasm make all our work possible.

The Peregrine Fund has a membership for everyone, from the $25 Individual level to Leadership Council members who give $1,000 and beyond. Members contribute significantly to our annual budget, making our conservation programs around the world possible.

Joining is easy — online at www.peregrinefund.org, in person at our World Center for Birds of Prey in Boise, Idaho, and by mail or phone.

Contact our Director of Membership, Linda Behrman, to express why membership matters to you!
